PUBLIC SAFETY AIDE SAVES LIFE OF CITIZEN

On April 28, 2006 at approximately 8:00AM, Fort Lauderdale Police received a call from a passerby reporting a w/m was down and out next to his bicycle in the 400 block of N.E. 11th Street. Believing it may be due to a car accident, Public Safety Aide (PSA) Kim Robson responded to the scene as he was just a few blocks away.

Upon his arrival seconds later, PSA Robson immediately noted that the victim was not breathing, had no pulse and his eyes were open and fixed. Robson began CPR and continued compressions for approximately five minutes until Fire Rescue arrived on scene to take over. Due to Robson's efforts, the victim did regain a pulse and was transported to Broward General Medical Center where he is currently listed in serious but stable condition.
